

Fellowship Program Coordinator Timeline

This timeline outlines the responsibilities of a fellowship program coordinator* and provides an introduction to the position for those new to graduate medical education (GME). It contains a general summary of the types of tasks, events, and deadlines in a typical academic year, and aims to help new coordinators organize and prioritize their daily, weekly, and monthly projects.

Be aware of the varied nature of the coordinator position. Not all items included in the timeline will be applicable to all programs, and programs may use different terminology for the same processes. This is a general overview and a tool to customize to an individual program's needs.

Guidance on vacation time is not included here but note that the start of the academic year (June and July) and recruitment interview season (dates vary by subspecialty) are the busiest periods for coordinators.

*The term program coordinator (or coordinator) is used throughout this document, although Sponsoring Institutions and programs may use different terminology (e.g., program administrator). According to the Background and Intent in the ACGME Common Program Requirements (Fellowship), the coordinator “will frequently manage the day-to-day operations of the program and serve as an important liaison with learners, faculty and other staff members, and the ACGME” (page 14).

- Contacts: This section provides a table to record the names and contact information of colleagues with whom coordinators interact on a regular basis.
- Important Dates: These are the deadlines and major events that occur throughout a typical academic year. These deadlines and events also appear in the timeline under the relevant month.
- Monthly and As-Needed Events/Tasks: These tasks, divided by category, are typically performed on a monthly or as-needed basis throughout an academic year.
- Annual Events/Tasks: These tasks occur annually during a typical academic year, but the actual dates/time of year will vary widely by Sponsoring Institution/program.

- Timeline (July through June): These tasks are performed at particular times during the academic year and are fairly standard across Sponsoring Institutions/programs. They are often tied to requirements from an outside organization (e.g., the ACGME, National Residency Matching Program [NRMP]).
