Bridging the gap between ivory tower and communities

“Although much of clinical research discoveries are based in academic medical centers, patients from large, integrated medical centers [Kaiser Permanente] are likely more representative of the underlying population, providing support for the generalizability of cancer research based on electronic data from these centers.”

Equity gap

Influence of Health Care Systems on Mortality in Adult Patients With Cancer

KPSC, Kaiser Permanente Southern California; OPI, other private insurance; ref, reference.

*Adjusted for age and stage at diagnosis, sex, year of diagnosis, anatomic cancer site, primary cancer therapy (surgery), adjuvant therapy (receipt of chemotherapy, radiation therapy, and/or hormonal therapy), socioeconomic status, and county of residence.

“Among insured patients with cancer in southern California, those diagnosed within KPSC had lower overall mortality compared with the (other private insurance) group. Furthermore, this protective effect was greatest for African American / Black patients and Hispanic patients”
